March 2016

It is with the utmost confidence that we can recommend the services provided by Gearhouse Splitbeam!

Since having them on board to take care of all our sound and lighting requirements for our annual musical productions, we have never looked back.

While this highly reputable company has worked on most of SA's biggest theatre productions they never pull their noses up at the smaller shows and provide the same level of superior service regardless of the size of the production. They are always willing to work within specified budgets and fully understand limitations and restrictions thereof. The magic they are able to create – despite the challenge of tight budgets – is testament to their creative problem-solving abilities. Splitbeam can always be relied on to bring that extra “wow” factor to any production. Despite being a relatively small, private institution, Splitbeam has always treated us as though we are one of their most valued and precious clients providing the most personal and individualised care and assistance.

Besides the superior services they offer they are also undeniably passionate and committed to the entertainment industry as a whole and completely dedicated to cultivating collaborations within the local performing arts sector with particular focus on developing and supporting young and up-coming theatre makers.

Splitbeam has an immaculate track record, one that Oakfields College can certainly vouch for. Their years of experience, professionalism, loyalty, commitment and contribution to the theatre industry are the reasons we will continue to collaborate with Splitbeam for as long as they are willing to continue our relationship.

It is a privilege for us to work with such a reputable company and people (particularly Helen, Alistair and Robyn) who are so undeniably passionate, experienced and committed.

Thank you, Splitbeam. We look forward to creating future magic and many more fantastic productions with you.

Regards,
